

DRIVE GROWTH WITH NETWORKED PURCHASE-TO-PAY

Purchase-to-pay (P2P) can play a major role in helping finance professionals gain the visibility and control they need over their cash flow. Networked P2P is a dynamic way to simplify and streamline key financial processes leveraging open B2B networks. Companies that take a networked approach to P2P are better able to optimize working capital, free up cash within the business, and unlock new profit streams.

A New Approach to P2P

The move to a more networked approach to Purchase-to-Pay is made possible by the latest innovations in the cloud and open B2B networks that make access to payment and financing services easier for buyers and sellers. These services enable greater financial agility to uncover new profit streams that are currently hidden within the balance sheet.

By simplifying and streamlining key financial processes, businesses can increase their financial agility while increasing control, reducing costs and boosting cash flows.

A New Level of Financial Agility

Visibility and control throughout the purchase-to-pay cycle enable organizations to be more efficient.

Deep collaboration between finance, accounts payable, procurement, treasury and trading partners enables the financial supply chain to become a powerful just-in-time tool for financing and payment.

What's more, businesses have the power to choose how to manage their working capital by leveraging the optimum mix of payment strategies.

Solutions for Networked Purchase-to-Pay

Basware solutions for Networked P2P are globally scalable. They cover the entire P2P cycle, enabling you to transform your procurement and AP processes:

“Since we implemented our AP automation solution, we’ve seen tremendous improvement in the approval process. We are not only able to pay our vendors on time, we can pay them ahead of time. This has enabled us to go back to our top vendors and negotiate early payment discounts. We have turned Accounts Payable from a cost center into a revenue generator.”
